BG's Mr. Involvement

□ Blair Miller explains why involvement in University activities is important to him.

Student involvement in campus organizations makes one's college career more enjoyable. One University senior took this advice to heart by being involved with many organizations, but to him, it's just part of college.

Blair Miller, senior interpersonal communication and journalism major, is an anchor for the BG 24 News, the president of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity and the president of Order of Omega, the Greek honor society. This year, he also found the time to represent the University as Freddie Falcon, one of the school mascots.

Miller said he enjoys being involved with these different organizations because of the people he's met and the opportunities he's had, and would encourage other students at the University to get involved with different groups on campus as well.

"If there is something you want to do, don't hesitate, just try it out," he said. "It is important to make sure you are having fun by doing what benefits you as a person and your goals."

Miller said he loves being involved with BG 24 News. He originally wanted to major in education, but then decided that wasn't right for him. He said he loved IPC classes he had taken, and one thing led to another.

"I saw an ad in the paper for BG 24 News if you were interested in reporting and I decided to try it," he said. "I did it on a whim and fell in love with it."

Miller said he was a reporter for a year before auditioning for his present position as news anchor.

"I love what I do, and I want it to be that way when I graduate," he said. "The best part about this job is that you can choose what you want to do with a story."

Melissa Pearch, sports director and anchor for BG 24 News, said she has enjoyed working with Miller for the last two years.

"I've never met a person more dedicated than Blair who loves what he does," she said. "Blair is a wonderful guy because he makes time for everyone and always has a smile on his face."

Dan Bumpus, BG 24 News reporter, also said Miller is a pleasure to work with.

"I think working with Blair is a true pleasure because he is always down in the newsroom everyday," he said. "He is always working on something for the news show, whether it is for something on air or behind the scenes."

Miller said he became involved with Sigma Phi Epsilon his freshman year because he knew of the great things Greek organizations were doing, and he wanted to be a part of that.

"I knew from the moment I walked into

Media 100 joins with University

□ The University will begin installation of state-of-the-art digital technology throughout the campus.

By DARLA WARNOCK
The BG News

A $1.2 million partnership began and the University gained the largest base of Media 100 instruments recently. The University is now on its way to becoming the premier learning institute for the study of digital media in the nation.

The partnership with Media 100 will create a state-of-the-art digital editing center and install the National Institute for the Study of Digital Media at the University.

Larry Hatch, chairman of the visual communication technology program, said the beginning stages of the partnership with Media 100 began last year.

Over 240 students have already had access to the editing site before the partnership began, he said.

After the beginning stages were completed, Hatch contacted the Marlboro, Mass.-based company with a proposal to integrate the technology across the University campus.

In doing so, the University created what Hatch believes can become the leading digital art editing center in the country.

It has already been deemed the largest in the world, he said.

"It's very engaging," Hatch said. "[Media 100] really liked the concept and they thought we had the right concept here at Bowling Green."

High-end work areas will soon be developed throughout the campus in 38 stations.

Mark Marcin, co-author of the partnership proposal to Media 100, said the partnership opens up many opportunities for the University updates its Internet access

□ Ethernet will soon run through all residence halls and campus living units to aid student access.

By VINCE GUERRIERI
The BG News

The University will soon have more on-ramps to the information superhighway.

The University will be installing Ethernet connections in all campus residence halls and small living units, according to Ann-Marie Lancaster, provost associate for information technology. Lancaster said the connections will most likely be completed this year.

"We're hoping to get it completed sometime in the fall," Lancaster said.

The process began last summer when the University rewired the residence halls and will continue when a requisition is submitted to the University next month, Lancaster said. The remainder of the project will be completed when the various wirings throughout campus are connected to a network.

Three residence halls are already connected to the network: the newly renovated Kreischer and Founders quads, and Dunbar in the Harshman Quad.

Lancaster said the new system will allow both IBM and Apple computer users to connect to the Internet faster than would be done over modem connection. The Ethernet will also free up phone lines which would be used for modem connections.

Lancaster said this new system will show the University's commitment to improving living and learning for students.

"What we want to tell people is that this is a high priority," Lancaster said.

Tax day is here

IRS workers in Cincinnati expect to process 16 million returns this year

The Associated Press

COVINGTON, Ky. - Tuesday is the culmination of federal income tax anxiety for millions of Americans who wait until the deadline to file. The end is weeks away for the IRS workers who process the returns.

The Cincinnati Service Center expects to process 16 million returns from Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Michigan and West Virginia - including 4 million not yet received.

If all goes well, most refunds will be in the mail by May 18, spokesman Chris Kerns said Monday.

■ Have you ever wondered where your tax form goes when you drop it in the mail? Story and graphic, page 4.

About 70 percent of all filers get a refund, and that averages $1,328 this year, Kerns said. The other 30 percent have been in no hurry to file.

"It's always good advice to tell people who owe money to wait until April 15th," Kerns said. "I can't argue with that strategy."

The Cincinnati center, one of the two largest of the IRS's 10 processing locations, has a year-round staff of about 2,500 and hires another 2,500 seasonal workers.

The center started handling simple returns by telephone in 1990, and this year expects to handle one-third of the 5 million such filings nationwide. For people who don't itemize, a telephone return patterned after the 1040EZ form can be completed in minutes.

"It's the beginning of a trend of getting rid of paper," Kerns said. "We know that we're never going to eliminate paper from the IRS process, but we're going to chip away at it."

Electronic filing speeds refunds - a 21-day turnaround, compared with 40 days for a Apocalypse or a new millennium?

Jesus is coming, look busy!
-from a bumper sticker

Boy, things just seem to be going to hell in a handbasket lately. The Heaven's Gate cult took the Hale-Bopp comet a little too seriously. They believed an alien ship was following Hale-Bopp, and the end of the world was nigh. Besides sparking nationwide fear of everything "New Age" (whatever that means), their mass suicide marks perhaps the first of many strange events leading up to the end of the millennium. To many people, especially to some conservative Christians, the evidence that the year 2000 marks doomsday is mounting.

At www.novia.net you can check the "Rapture Indicator." It's a list of 45 criteria whose frequency and intensity are measured weekly, then added together for a measurement of how close we are to the apocalypse. The criteria includes the old standbys: earthquakes, tornadoes, volcanoes, floods, famine and moral standards.

But there are also signs with a modern twist: the "New Age" craze (whatever that is), globalization, liberalism and inflation. Never fear, at the same site you can browse the "Post Rapture Survival Guide" for those who have to stick around for Armageddon.

The author of the site, Kurt Seland, recommends, among other things, "building up a supply of multiple vitamins." He also advises rejecting the "mark of the beast" at all costs.

While this may be sound advice,

Seland lets his own insecurities muddy his prophesying by saying things like "[The Antichrist] will probably be openly homosexual" and claiming Satan is the mastermind behind feminism (snicker).

Seland is not alone. His was one of many sites dedicated to warning the globe about The End. And the bestseller's lists are ripe with books with similar themes, like John Hagee's "Beginning of the End" and Peter Lalond's "Left Behind."

Hollywood is also realizing the marketing potential of the ominous approach of 2000 AD. If it weren't for the military brawn of the United States, we surely would have lost the earth to the alien invaders in "Independence Day." Other movies about meteors, volcanoes, plagues and otherworldly life forms have made imminent doom fun for the entire family. The Discovery Channel has had a "disastrous" tone lately, with specials about Tsunamis (giant tidal waves), meteors, UFOs and environmental disasters.

What is this sudden fascination with the end, and why the year 2000? Why not 2001, which is truly the beginning of the new millennium? Surely at no other time in history has the human race worried about the fulfillment of 2,000 year-old prophecies.

Humans are nothing if not predictable. Bernard McGinn's book, "Visions of the End: Apocalyptic Traditions in the Middle Ages," outlines a long and complicated history of apocalypticism, or the belief in a "final" judgment day.

In the fourth and fifth centuries, many religious folk believed the year 500 marked the end of the 6,000 year history, and a beginning of the apocalypse. This is based on the Six Age Theory, or the "cosmic week" derived from the six days of creation where each day equals one thousand years. Coupled with the "signs" of Barbarian onslaughts, the fall of the Roman Empire and the superhuman feats of Alexander the Great, the end was feared to be in 500.

In the years before 1000 AD, you can imagine the chaos. Apocalyptic prophecies abounded and disaster was believed imminent. Ekkehard of Aura wrote at that time of the signs he observed, "About the fifth of October we saw a comet in the south ... a woman, pregnant for two years, gave birth to a son already speaking" He also said he saw a lamb with two heads and infants born with multiple limbs.

In the mid-1300s Saint Vincent Ferrer wrote, "... for about the past hundred years, the Antichrist ought to have come and the world truly have reached its end." The famed twelfth century prophet Merlin, who was King Arthur's adviser, wrote "... Rome [the Antichrist] will look upon with fierce eyes"

Modern "prophets" claim to have all the answers, too. Some believe the year 2000, not 500, marks the end of the 6000 years

"allotted to man by God." In the 1985 book, "Recipe for Armageddon," Mathew E. Cahill claims Russia is "Gog," the great powerful being who will invade the Middle East, signaling the beginning of Armageddon.

Cold War hatred is evident in Hal Lindsey's work as well. He has written many books on the end, including "The 1980s: Countdown to Armageddon." Lindsey writes that there is "... a continuous erosion of American power due to continual concession to and defeats by the communist world."

Like his prophesying forerunners, Cahill fears for the future, "... I am convinced that mankind is in great danger ... I've grown weary of the nonsense and evil that pollutes our planet."

In his book "Approaching Hoofbeats," Billy Graham writes, "... I have become more deeply aware of ... the dangerous trends which seem to be leading our world to the brink of Armageddon."

Well, I have become more deeply aware of how incredibly predictable human beings are. I'm on the edge of my seat to see what goes on in the next three years before the supposed "end."

What a great time to be a journalist.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

"Non-trad" bill ignored in News

I was extremely disappointed by News staff member John Stebbins' Tuesday article about the USG meeting. He mentioned several bills which did not pass. What he completely failed to mention was the one and only bill which passed on Monday night.

Whereas Bill 96-97/36 may not have seemed important enough to mention in the article about Monday's proceedings, it was very important to a number of people, so much so that not only did it pass, but it did so unanimously.

This bill asked for the administration to allow students to list themselves on all University documents as a "non-traditional" or "self-supporting" student. In other words, it allowed for non-traditional students to be recognized.

This bill was important enough that two faculty members and two students went and spoke at the USG meeting on Monday night, which I believe is somewhat of a rarity. The members of USG often disagree and many bills are voted down (thank goodness), but this was one issue that really mattered to everyone enough for this bill to pass unanimously. Too bad it didn't matter enough to John Stebbins to warrant print.

Why should this bill matter to traditional-aged students and the administration? How would you feel if all of your mail went to your home addressed to your parents? How would you feel if you were an older student who was working, raising a family and commuting to school and received a letter about your upcoming graduation addressed to your parents congratulating them on "their role in this wonderful endeavor?"

I, like many other non-traditional students, received such a letter from Vice President John Moore. I found this letter very insulting, especially considering my parents are deceased and they had no role whatsoever in my education. I AM the parent at my home. I believe that it is time non-traditional students were allowed some long overdue personal dignity and respect. Apparently, USG believed this too.

My sincere thanks to the numerous faculty and students who wrote on behalf of this bill and to those of you who spoke on Monday night before USG. Also, thank you to Senator Jeff Poynter, who drafted this bill, and ALL of the senators who passed it.

USG antics petty, sickening

I would like to say a few things about the recent scandal concerning the USG elections. I don't know what really happened, and quite frankly, I don't care. What upsets me is the fact that we are seeing the same mudslinging and deceptive behavior in our college elections that we see every year from those who run for local, state, and national offices.

Many of us have lost faith in and respect for those who run our country because of their petty and vindictive attitudes. Personally, I want to see politicians who care about the issues and not about what their opponent did or didn't wear on September 2, 1986, or some similar inane critique.

The same is true for our campus leaders. I would like to see people in office who care about what the students think and not about whether or not their biography was posted on the USG web page. If the posting of Mr. Wolfe's biography was truly a problem, why did he wait until AFTER the election results were in to address these problems? It sounds to me like he is just being a sore loser.

Mr. Wolfe also mentioned that the election was unfair because his opponents were campaigning in the computer labs while the voting was taking place. The only response I have to that is, "So what?"

If I had been sitting in one of the labs that this allegedly happened in, it would have shown me one of two things. Either these candidates care enough about making a difference that they are willing to talk to voters about the issues until the last possible moment, or they are so desperate for votes that they haven't got a chance of winning, and they need to resort to begging for votes at the last minute.

Since Mr. Wolfe has accused the two opponents that finished on top of this year's USG elections, I would probably think that the first situation is more likely to be true.

In conclusion, I would just like to say that it really makes me sick to see this kind of petty and vindictive behavior from a candidate in a college election.

There will be plenty of time for that in the future, especially if any of these candidates ever plan on running for President of the United States.

If these allegations turn out to be true and Mr. Wolfe is placed in office, I will have less respect for him than for either of his opponents because of his childish behavior.

the house that it was the right decision," he said. "It is such a tremendous honor to be part of such a group."

There are many advantages to being Greek, Miller said, including meeting lots of different people and having opportunities for leadership positions.

Scott Carr, former president of Sigma Phi Epsilon and current president of Interfraternity Council, said Miller is a great leader and friend.

"Blair has a compassion for the things he does and the people he knows," he said. "He is not just doing something to do it, but he does it for a reason, and he loves what he does."

Carr said Miller does what he can to make the fraternity better and considers all the fraternity members when making decisions.

"In any decision that Blair makes, he takes everyone's thoughts into consideration because your opinion matters to him," he said.

Miller said he's not sure why he tried out for Freddie Falcon, but he thought it would be something to do to relax and have fun. He said it was a great experience, but the hardest part was keeping it a secret from others.

"The benefits of being Freddie Falcon are that you get to represent Bowling Green in such a great manner," he said. "The mascot is such an icon for the University that it doesn't matter who's under the mask."

He said only his roommate and one friend knew that he was Freddie Falcon this year, but it was a good experience to help him relax.

"Being Freddy Falcon is such a great outlet because you can get crazy and be nuts, and no one knows it's you," he said.

Miller said he enjoys getting involved with these different things and still finds a way to manage his time. He said it is important to feel a part of the University.

"By doing these different things, you can feel like you have made a dent on the University," he said. "You meet so many people that you develop tight friendships with, and you have different groups of friends to be involved with."

McDougal gets lax sentence

The Associated Press

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. -- James McDougal, the Clintons' former business partner, drew a lenient three-year prison sentence Monday for 18 felonies after the Whitewater prosecutor told the court his cooperation led to information "previously unknown to us."

McDougal could have gotten up to 84 years in prison. He sent an ominous signal to the Clintons by backing away from his statement a year ago that he expected them to be absolved of wrongdoing.

"I wouldn't go to the bank on that," McDougal said.

Whitewater independent counsel Kenneth Starr said McDougal's help has led to a "fuller, broader, deeper understanding" of the evidence that led to the wide-ranging investigation of the Clintons' finances.

"It has led us to documents and it has led us to witnesses," Starr said. He added that much of the information has been independently corroborated. What McDougal had to say "was previously unknown to us ... and is known to a very few people," Starr said.

He declined to discuss anything about President Clinton and Hillary Rodham Clinton, citing the secrecy requirements of an ongoing grand jury investigation.

Published reports say McDougal has reversed himself and now corroborates a story that Clinton, then governor of Arkansas, attended a meeting in 1986 at which an illegal loan was discussed.

In sworn testimony, Clinton has denied any involvement with the loan.

U.S. District Judge George three of defrauding McDougal's S&L and the federal government.

Prosecutors won McDougal's cooperation late last summer. They were eager to question him about the tangled finances of the Whitewater land venture and the legal work Mrs. Clinton performed as a private lawyer for McDougal's failing S&L.

University in terms of technology.

"There are a lot of possibilities," Marcin said. "There will be some really exciting opportunities for the campus."

The University competed with other institutions for the program, including UCLA and Emerson, Marcin said.

The University was chosen because it contains a more interdisciplinary program and allows for the technology to be placed throughout the campus.

He explained students will immediately benefit, giving them access to technology which is used in industry and digital video capability.

The new technology should be put into place by this fall, allowing students to have access to the new equipment. Some of the new technology is currently being used by students majoring in telecommunications, visual communication and computer art.

The partnership will allow the University to be the first to develop this technology and become the focus of attention for other institutions.

"They are starting an educational consortium and we will have a Media 100 web site as a place to share information," Hatch said. "Our goal is to make Bowling Green an international leader in the field of digital media."

Breast-feeding mothers ask for legislation

The Associated Press

CINCINNATI -- Mothers who breast-feed their infants in public want state legislation to permit them to do so. Ohio lawmakers are cool to the idea.

Dawn Wagner, 28, of Liberty Township, asked state Sen. Scott Nein, R-Middletown, and state Rep. Mike Fox, R-Fairfield Township, to propose legislation after she was asked not to breast-feed in her health club's nursery.

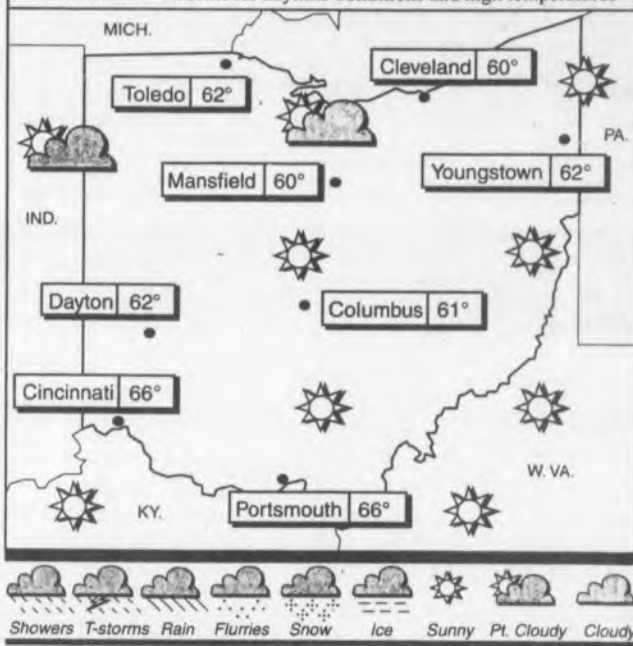

But neither was willing to take up her cause.

"I support a woman's right to breast-feed, but there are limits to fights the government ought to referee," Fox said. "Anytime somebody has a disagreement with somebody, they want to run to the Legislature and pass a law, when a good dose of common sense will do the trick."

TAX DAY IS HERE

Politicians talk IRS, tax reform

Congressmen propose initiatives to simplify tax code for next year

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - As millions scramble to meet Tuesday night's tax deadline, politicians engage in a related spring ritual: a lot of ideas for reform and a little IRS bashing.

The Clinton administration proposed a package of 60 mostly minor initiatives to simplify the tax code, such as making tax payments with a credit card and streamlining rules for claiming deductions for dependent children younger than 19.

Republicans in Congress, meanwhile, geared up for a week's worth of events making a case for dramatic tax reform and focusing on allegations of mismanagement and computer problems at the Internal Revenue Service.

"I am convinced that if most members of Congress did their own taxes, we would have had tax reform long ago," said House Ways and Means Chairman Bill Archer, R-Texas, who wants to replace the tax code with a national sales tax.

Post offices in nearly every major city will extend hours or offer late mail pickups Tuesday night. Some offices are planning special events: At the post office in the northern California city of Pleasanton, taxpayers can seek revenge by dunking an IRS agent in a water tank.

President and Mrs. Clinton did their filing early and released the results on Monday. They reported income of just over $1 million - nearly three-fourths of it from Mrs. Clinton's book "It Takes a Village" - and paid taxes of about $200,000. They gave the book's proceeds to charity after taking out enough to pay for the taxes on the book royalties.

Meanwhile, the private Tax Foundation estimated that the average American will see his entire paycheck spent in taxes through May 9 - the 128th day of the year.

If taxpayers feel beaten up after finishing their taxes this year, that's nothing compared to the almost daily drubbing of the IRS. Critics portray the agency as wasting billions on a computer system upgrade, condemn IRS workers for snooping into tax files and accuse the agency of singling out conservative groups for audits.

But taxpayers don't seem to be focusing on that.

"It's pretty much a red herring," Mike Calo, a 39-year-old computer programmer in Annapolis, Md., said of the IRS problems. And an Associated Press poll last week found seven in 10 adults giving the agency a positive rating on its ability to promptly and accurately handle returns and inquiries.

Few success stories will be on display in the Republican-controlled Congress this week.

On Tuesday, the House will consider a bill making it a crime for IRS workers to snoop through confidential taxpayer records. It will also take up a non-binding resolution on family tax relief and a proposed constitutional amendment that would require a two-thirds congressional vote to raise taxes.

Criticism of the IRS isn't confined to Republicans. Rep. Bernard Sanders, an independent from Vermont, asked at a House hearing Monday why IRS auditing of wealthy Americans and corporations was on the decline while there was a rise in audits of those earning less than $25,000 a year.

A tax expert with the General Accounting Office responded that staffing and budget cutbacks have led to fewer audits in paper filer, Kerns said. But some taxpayers don't want to pay preparers the $15-$40 fee, and paper W-2s and the signed document still must be mailed to the IRS.

Electronic filing - pioneered by the Cincinnati Service Center in 1986 - has increased but not as quickly as the IRS had hoped. From 13.5 million telephone/electronic returns nationwide in 1994, the agency expects 20 million this year.

Electronic returns may be filed only by approved preparers who have undergone a security check.

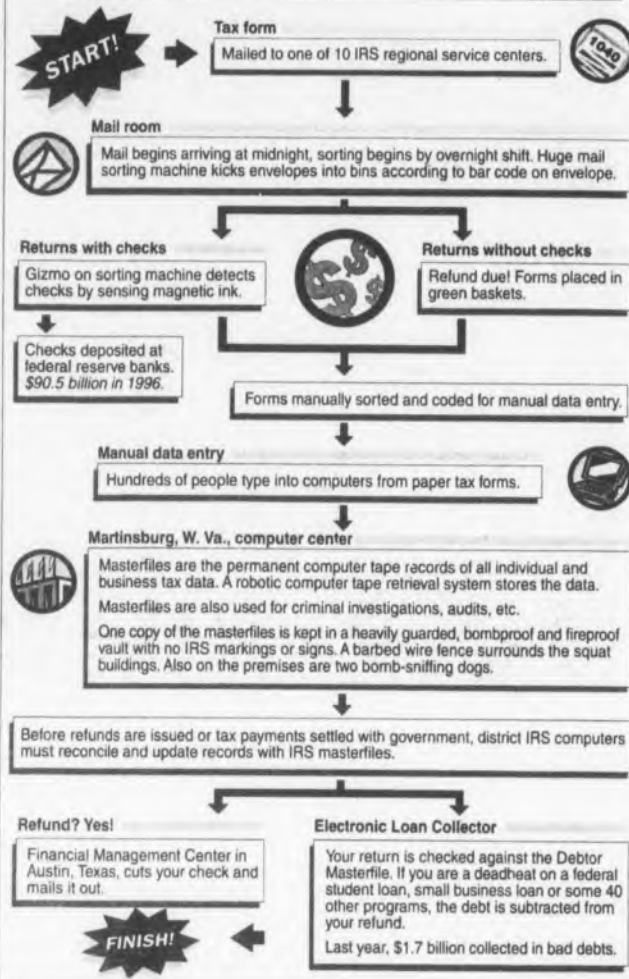

A brief experiment with letting individuals file returns from home computers was abandoned out of fear of what a hacker could do to IRS computers, Kerns said.

A program called the 1040PC allows people to calculate and print out returns on home computers and mail them to the IRS, and that can have some advantages.

"With a computer doing the math, the error rate goes way down," Kerns said. "It's less than 1 percent, compared with 15 percent on paper returns."

general but that there has been an effort to crack down on fraud in the Earned Income Tax Credit program for the poor.

And there were overtones of the next presidential campaign. Jack Kemp, the GOP's vice presidential candidate in 1996, was making speeches in Iowa, a key state in the presidential primaries. And the conservative policy group he co-chairs, Empower America, prepared a national radio campaign backing House Speaker Newt Gingrich's call for eliminating capital gains taxes. Sen. Bob Kerrey, D-Nebr., pushed for a different kind of a tax cut: reducing the social security payroll tax by 2 percentage points.

The Clinton administration's proposals include freeing some 1.7 million dependents, typically children, from filing separate tax returns. Under current law, dependents with $700 in earned income in 1998 (paper carriers, for instance) must file returns and pay taxes on all unearned income.

Army trainees allege rape in Aberdeen sex scandal

The Associated Press

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, Md. - In the first trial to come out of the Aberdeen sex scandal, two Army trainees testified Monday that their drill sergeant raped them in his office.

A 21-year-old private said she was returning to her barracks from the bathroom when Staff Sgt. Delmar Simpson ordered her into his office, pushed her onto a couch, pulled off her shorts and raped her.

"I begged him to stop," the private said. "He was laying on top of me. There wasn't a whole lot I could do."

The second witness, a 22-year-old specialist with the National Guard, said Simpson pushed her onto a bed in his office and raped her when she went to confront him about his criticism about her uniform and nail polish.

BG breaks records at Sea Ray Relays

□ Emily Cokinos, Becky Barnett and the rest of the Falcons sprinted to an impressive performance at the Sea Ray Relays in Knoxville.

By BRETT THOMPSON
The BG News

The Falcon tracksters earned a little respect last week as they battled national powerhouses like Tennessee, Alabama, Florida State and Penn State at the Sea Ray Relays in Knoxville, Tenn.

Two school records were broken in dramatic fashion, seven personal records were set, and Emily Cokinos continued her quest to qualify for the NCAA's.

Cokinos was named the Falcon Athlete of the Meet as she once again bested her personal record and captured yet another first place finish in the javelin throw.

Cokinos was the lone Falcon champion with a throw of 158 feet and nine inches. She outdistanced a tough Penn State thrower to win the championship.

"The competition was extremely tough," Cokinos said. "One of the Penn State girls was really close to me, but I just beat her out. I always seem to do better throwing against the top schools like Penn State and Tennessee."

The throw by Cokinos provisionally qualified her for the NCAA's and placed her at least among the top 20 in the nation.

"I just want to make it to nationals," Cokinos said. "I would like to throw 165 [feet] and if I make it to nationals, maybe 170. I'm setting pretty high goals for myself, but I think they are reachable goals."

The Falcon shuttle hurdle relay team continued its amazing assault on the school record books, breaking the record they set two weeks ago by almost half a second.

The team of Kristin Inman, Kaleitha Johnson, Karyn Heaney and Brook Miller streaked to a second-place finish, setting the record with a time of 58.36 seconds. Their previous record had been 59.03.

Since the beginning of the season, the relay team has shaved almost two full seconds off of the old school record.

"The hurdlers just ran great," Price said. "Right now, we are one of the top teams in the country, but I think we can improve even more."

Inman also took seventh in the 400-meter hurdles with a personal best of 61.08.

The biggest surprise of the meet was the performance of Becky Barnett.

Barnett has battled knee problems and is not even close to 100 percent, but still managed to break her own school record in the grueling pentathlon.

According to Price, Barnett is only going to get better.

"Becky got the school record, but she's still nowhere near what

The BG News

The local fire department was sent out to the Sea Ray Relays in Knoxville, Tenn., last weekend to put out fires caused by Bowling Green men's track team. Many of the BG performances were nothing short of scorching.

"Overall I think it was a real good meet for us," Falcon coach Sid Sink said. "We had a bunch of highlights as well as more records broken."

At the relays, All-American Rah'Sheen Clay was named Athlete of the Meet, which is his second this year. Clay earned the same honor at the Northwest Invitational the weekend before.

"I expected him to do well, and I don't think he ran up to par," Sink said. "He didn't feel good going down there, and Rah'Sheen didn't run his best."

Despite Clay's subpar running, he still managed to stun the crowd with record-breaking performances.

In the 400-meter dash, Clay broke his own school record with a time of 46.87 seconds, grabbing seventh place in the meet.

Placing third overall in the prestigious 100-meter dash, Clay sprinted to a time of 10.49. To appreciate the magnitude of a third-place finish in the Relays, it is important to know there were approximately 45 different sprinters running along with Clay in that event.

"A 10.49 is not a bad time at all for the 100," Sink said. "Rah'Sheen is now definitely considered a national-caliber runner."

But it still was not enough for Clay. He also anchored two incredible relay teams, one that placed sixth and the other that broke a school record.

The 1600-meter relay team, made up of Darren Braddix, Rob Pietruszka, Terry Rivers and Clay, cruised to a sixth-place finish with a time of 3:10.96.

Falcon second baseman Melissa Cricks stretches in vain to nail Detroit's Mary Jo Kelly at first base. Kelly was safe on a bunt single after she tried to advance Lori Dembinski, who later scored the Titans' only run of the day on a BG error.

Falcon offense comes alive

□ The Falcon bats appeared in the second game of yesterday's doubleheader to scorch Detroit and earn a split with the Titans.

By JASON McMAHON
The BG News

When Bowling Green center fielder Jenny Ranz touched the plate in the bottom of the first inning in yesterday's second game against Detroit, somewhere in the dugout, Jennifer Wolf had to cringe, if only a little.

Ranz would come around to score twice more, and the Falcons crossed the plate another five times to beat up on the Titans 8-0 after Wolf lost a 1-0 heartbreaker in the opener.

Wolf matched her career high with 13 strikeouts, but BG squandered her effort as Detroit earned its first shutout of the season, making a fifth inning unearned run hold-up.

"I am just ill that Jennifer Wolf has 13 strikeouts, and we don't get a win," Falcon coach Rachel Miller-Reif said. "It just doesn't work that way."

Wolf was nothing short of spectacular on the hill. She set the tone by striking out the side in the first stanza and mowed down at least one batter in every inning the rest of the way.

The only bumpy stretch came in the fifth inning. A base hit, a bunt single and a walk loaded the bases with one out. Catcher Missy Phillips tried to pick the runner off third, but the ball slipped past third baseman Erin Zwinck and Detroit took a one-run lead.

It was the only error of the game for BG, -- after committing 12 in a four-game weekend series, the Falcons' defensive play was markedly improved -- but it was a costly one.

BG threatened in its last at-bat. Pam Kreuz, pinch-hitting for right fielder Carmen Sather, delivered a one-out single. Sather re-entered for Kreuz and promptly stole second and advanced to third on Ranz's groundout. But she was stranded there, and the Falcons dropped their sixth one-run game of the season.

Wolf drops to 5-11 with the defeat.

The Falcons made amends in the nightcap. Ranz and second baseman Melissa Cricks led an offensive explosion that forced the umpires to call the game one out into the bottom of the fifth inning due to the mercy rule.

Ranz doubled to lead off the game and scored on catcher Colleen Bates' RBI groundout, and the rout was on.

Ranz, who finished 2-for-2 with three runs scored, led off the third with a walk and was the first of four Falcons to reach home. Designated hitter Gina Michael singled and scored, and pitcher Amy Hamilton and Kreuz came around on Cricks' two-out double.

Michael belted a double of her own in the fourth to drive in Ranz and Zwinck, and Cricks tallied another RBI with her second double of the game in the fifth before the game was halted.

Cricks was stellar at the plate, going 3-for-3 with three RBIs. Michael drove in two of her own and scored once with a 2-for-3 showing.

Hamilton did her best to match Wolf's performance on the mound, giving up five hits and striking out five batters in five innings of work. But with the offensive support, she got the victory that eluded Wolf, BG's all-time winningest pitcher.

"We got a 'W' under our belts," Miller-Reif said. "It's been a long time coming. I'm fired up. So are our girls."

BG travels to Mid-American Conference foe Miami today for another doubleheader, the Falcons' fourth twinbill in as many days. BG ventures to Athens this weekend for a pair of doubleheaders vs. Ohio.

Despite residing in last place in the MAC with a 2-14 record (8-22 overall), Miller-Reif says the season is far from over and that the Falcons could still creep up into the middle of the conference.

"I was looking at our calendar," Miller-Reif said. "We still have 18 left to play. By no means are we out of contention."

she's capable of doing," Price said. "For instance, she had a long jump of 17 and a half feet in the pentathlon, then came back to jump 18 feet and nine inches and place sixth in the long jump competition.

"She's only a sophomore, and she's not completely healthy, but I wish she was. I'd really like to see what she can do when she's at full strength."

Brook Miller also showed a lot of improvement in the heptathlon, placing 11th with a score of 4500 points. Miller now ranks fourth on BG's all-time pentathlon list.

The meet also featured Jessica LaFene's debut in the 5000-meter run. LaFene ran an impressive 17:08.49 for a seventh place finish.

LaFene's time puts her in the top three in the Mid-American Conference. According to Price, her time is considerably faster than she ran in cross country.

The high jumpers also had an incredible meet. Both Jodi Rafferty and Stephanie Heldt cleared 5 feet, 8 inches to place fifth and sixth, respectively.

"Overall, we performed very well," Price said. "This was not a scored meet, but if they had scored it, we would have been right up there with the bigger teams."

Senior Nikki Sturzinger, who placed fifth in the discus, agreed with Price.

"As a team, I think we did pretty well down in Tennessee," Sturzinger said. "This is the fourth year that I've went, and the past three years I've done kind of bad, so I was happy with my performance. Now we have to focus on Toledo."

The Rockets are coming to town

The Falcons will not get much rest from their Tennessee trip as they prepare to host the University of Toledo in a dual meet today at Whittaker Track.

Although BG might not be fully recovered from last week, many team members still expect a strong showing.

"The people that went to Tennessee might be a little tired, but we should still do very well against Toledo," Sturzinger said. "The weather's going to be nice, and it will be a good chance for a lot of people to qualify for nationals. I think we have a good shot to win."

According to Price, BG will be challenged in a few events, but should run away with the meet.

"Toledo has some outstanding distance runners in Lois Albers and Theresa Marieu," Price said.

"As a team, I think we did pretty well down in Tennessee."

Nikki Sturzinger
Falcon thrower

"They are really quite good and could give Jess and our other distance runners some fits."

"They also have a national class hurdler named Arnika Edwards who is very, very good. Kaleitha Johnson and Clarice Gregory will also face some tough sprinters, but other than that, Toledo's not particularly strong."

Price anticipates another solid performance from his team, but mentioned the possibility of a slight letdown.

"Sometimes it is difficult to get up for a mid-week meet," Price said. "But we're looking forward to a good meet. We just have to make sure that we don't look past it to the MAC Relays next week."

record holders in the 800-meter relay thanks to the tremendous effort of Damon Holmes, Braddix, Rivers and Clay. The relay team finished fifth with a time of 1:25.39, which was only two tenths of a second away from second place.

The clocking eclipsed a 32-year-old record. Current BG assistant coach Tom Wright was on the 1965 relay that held the 800 relay record for more than three decades.

"We had a bunch of highlights as well as more records broken."

Sid Sink
Falcon coach

Braddix finished fourth overall in the 200-meter dash, which he has run with more confidence lately, consistently improving his times.

"Braddix ran a really good 200, and he is only five tenths of a second away from Rah'Sheen," Sink said. "It is really good to have two guys pushing each other like that."

The Falcons' distance team broke out of a minor slump, gaining ground in the steeplechase and 800-meter run.

"We have some confidence now in some different areas that are going to help us in upcoming meets," Sink said.

Jim Weckesser ran quick enough to win the 3,000-meter steeplechase with a time of 9:15.66 minutes.

"I thought Jim Weckesser's performance in the steeplechase was very good," Sink said. "It was definitely one of the highlights from the meet."

Craig Nieset and Pat Miller both ran very well in a tough 800, which hosted over 65 runners.

"Our half-milers are coming back and running well," Sink said. "Miller and Nieset are rolling again."

Adam Rose, the consistent shot put for the Falcons, provided a fifth place for the team, but injured his groin muscle in the process. Rose is expected to compete against Toledo today.

Last chance to see Clay is tomorrow vs. Toledo

The second and final home meet this season for the Falcon track teams will be tomorrow at Whittaker Track (behind the football stadium) against BG's big rival, Toledo.

Field events will get underway at 3 p.m., while running events will start around 4 p.m.

Since this is a small mid-week meet, all athletes who ran at the Sea Ray Relays will only be running single events.

Rah'Sheen Clay will anchor the 400-meter relay team, which is the first sprint event to start the day at 4 p.m. Clay could possibly run other events, depending on whether or not BG needs the points.

"We plan on having the meet won by the time the 1600-meter relay is run," Sink said.

As for Toledo, the Rockets are not at full strength coming into nearby Bowling Green.

"Right now Toledo is struggling," Sink said. "They have some injuries and problems, and I don't think they are at full strength coming down here."

Eddie Russel, Toledo's top athlete, will dominate the long and triple jumps and try to compete with Braddix in the hurdles.

Toledo has strengths in the high jump, sprints and hurdles. But the Rockets lack depth, so even though they may take first place, BG will likely grab second and third.

Bowling Green gets nearly automatic sweeps in the pole vault and steeplechase due to the lack of Toledo athletes without injuries and/or other problems.

With the Falcons' distance team running well lately, they should have no trouble wiping out a weak Rocket team.

"I don't think we'll have to go full-go to beat them," Sink said. "Unless something really goes wrong, we're going to win the meet."

In the javelin, Bowling Green is welcoming a new member on the team, John Hustler. Hustler is a hockey player for the Falcons who decided to try out the javelin, an event he has experience in.

Netters in for test

□ The women's tennis team will battle tough competition in its final preparations for MAC Tournament.

By G. MICHAEL GRAHAM
The BG News

It's the final week before the Mid-American Conference Tournament and the Bowling Green women's tennis team could not have asked for much better competition to prepare for it.

Today, the Falcons travel to Ohio State. Wednesday, they host Division III powerhouse Kenyon before finishing off at MAC opponents Eastern Michigan on Friday and Toledo Saturday.

Bowling Green faced Ohio State in the Ohio Intercollegiate Invitational in the fall. BG's Cindy Mikolajewski and Julie Weisblatt managed wins against the Buckeyes.

"They are real tough through the lineup," Falcon coach Penny Dean said. "They beat Western Michigan last week. Their doubles teams are hard-hitting."

Dean will play Tiffany LaSusa at the No. 6 singles for that match.

According to Mikolajewski, the Falcons (8-5, 2-2) will be looking for respect against the deep Big Ten squad.

"Every match will be a good match," Mikolajewski said. "It's great to have good wins versus Big Ten schools. The Big Ten tends to overlook the MAC in tennis.

"We can beat them. Despite the loss [Saturday to Western Michigan], it was a great weekend."

Kenyon College will come in tomorrow ranked number one in Division III. It consistently finishes in the top four of the Division III national playoffs.

"It's always nail-biters versus them," Dean said of Kenyon. "They are solid and well-coached. It will be a good match going into the weekend."

The weekend matches against the Eagles and Rockets will be important for BG in terms of seeding in the MAC Tournament. Two wins would give the Falcons a third seed.

"It should be a close match," Mikolajewski said of EMU. "In the past three years, we've lost to them in the duals, but beat them in the tourney. We're always competing for fourth and fifth. It'll be a good match."

As for the Rockets, Mikolajewski and Dean said the match is big because, just like any other sport, this is a rivalry of north-west Ohio.

Two or more wins this week would put the Falcon total in double digits. That would be an improvement from last year's mark of 9-9.

BG woman ruggers continue success

□ The BG women's rugby team continues success this season with wins over John Carroll, Ohio University and tough national competition.

By JENNIFER SEECH
For The BG News

Once again the Bowling Green women's rugby team has used its athletic skills to triumph over adversity. The women ruggers have had another exceptional season.

They celebrated their opening day with a victory over John Carroll on March 15. The team braved blizzard conditions and several broken bones to trounce the Blue Streaks, 15-0.

Captain Heather Ekey was happy with the win.

"This was a tough game against some tough players, but the best team came out on top," she said.

Bowling Green continued its winning streak over Spring Break when they traveled down to Nashville for the Nash Bash Tournament. BG competed against collegiate and club teams from across the United States and managed to capture fifth place.

On April 5, BG played host to Ohio University, one of the top 15 rugby teams in the nation. BG fought viciously to keep the Bobcats away from the try zone.

Heather Diesero, Kathy Williams, Heather Downey and Kate Kusnyer all managed to sneak by and score tries for the Falcons. The Falcons trampled OU with a 22-0 victory in the first game and a 12-5 mark in the B-side game.

Last weekend, the women ruggers traveled to Columbus for the Ohio Classics Tourney where they stole fourth place with a record of 3-1. This victory qualifies them for a national ranking.
